

March 7, 2005

I have found a lot of comfort in the group and am making some friends too. My counselor also is very supportive of my involvement in the support group. I think you offer a great and needed service and I think it's very kind of you to do so. I know it can't be easy some nights to travel to Princeton and hear a group of people whine about their ex's and spouses!!!

Bonnie